

CONSTRUCTION LEADERSHIP COUNCIL

ROGUE VALLEY CHAPTER

The Rogue Valley Construction Leadership Council (RVCLC) is a group of construction professionals that brings together all elements of the industry - architects, engineers, general contractors, specialty contractors, and associated businesses and organizations - to build a more united construction industry. Affiliated with the Oregon-Columbia Chapter of the Associated General Contractors, the group represents the interests of the construction industry in Jackson, Josephine, and Douglas counties.

CLC provides tomorrow's construction industry leaders with an opportunity to share ideas about issues the construction industry faces and industry knowledge to meet the challenges ahead...and it does this in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere.
